

CLINICAL RESIDENCY

Our Clinical Residencies are typically for participants with a lot more focus on the daily work of the clinic rather than on lectures and pure training programs. The participant can assist in any surgery or treatment from implant surgery and prosthetics to complex prosthodontic oral rehabilitation. Teaching is individualised with no other participant allowing undivided attention. This education can be the key to unlocking new practice success with both financial rewards that will equally match the professional challenges that you will master.

In this mini-residency, participants will view or perform live prosthetics and/or live implant surgery on patients. Participants follow real cases from the clinic's daily work, a variety of clinical situations that reflect real life in a dental practice office. This is a unique opportunity for participants to learn from Dr Christopher C.K. Ho on innovative procedures and concepts.

PROGRAM PHILOSOPHY

With proper training, you will be able to diagnose and treat your prospective patients from start to finish as well as receiving multiple benefits from these exciting and challenging cases.

Your responsibility is to expose your patients to possible treatment options and be comfortable helping your patients make an informed decision.

Alternatively, should you choose to work with a specialist, you will acquire the ability to participate at a new level of understanding resulting in positive benefits to your patients.
